

AGENCY: New Mexico Community Foundation

DESCRIPTION: The New Mexico Community Foundation offers small grants, technical assistance, "capacity building" workshops, and serves as a convener around important issues for nonprofit organizations, communities and people throughout New Mexico, especially in rural areas.

ELIGIBLE USES:

- Assistance is available for community organizing and development, organizational infrastructure support, conflict resolution, AIDS education and prevention. The Foundation is especially interested in worthwhile projects which focus on youth, women and girls, environment/ecology issues, Native American community re-investment, innovative arts programs, and "the dreams of the community".

QUALIFICATION CRITERIA/COMMENTS:

- Communities and organizations throughout New Mexico are eligible, with attention given primarily to those outside of Albuquerque and Santa Fe.
- Persons/organizations/communities interested should call to be put on the Foundation's mailing list for announcements of workshops and the availability of grant funds.
- Visit the home page at www.nmcf.org , <http://www.nmcf.org/docs/grants/grants.php?goto=grants> , or call 505.820.6860.
